We help you find them and optimize their giving potential.

Predictive Signals: We Know More

Knowing where people give and how they spend their money is the key to determining if they will give to your organization. Wiland has the largest donor database in America along with the largest set of individual-level spending data—trillions of continually refreshed, detailed transactions along with social media signals that reflect the likelihood of a person to give to your cause.

Artificial Intelligence: We Find Your Best Donors

Our response prediction platform analyzes these signals to identify the specific group of people who will give to your organization. We then help you find and convert them, wherever they are, across all channels and devices.
